Sir,—When I last wrote I promised to inform you if the odium should visit my vineyard at this moment; it has done so, but not in the manner I anticipated. Mr. Sullivan was the most affected; but all have been easily carried by the common public feeling process.

Thereby, without placing the responsibility of the bill by Mr. Nolan for the propagation of the grape vine in New South Wales, also the numerous petitions from all parts of the colony in favour of such a measure, whereby, without placing the responsibility of the bill on what they are asking for. I say prevention of the propagation of the vine, because if this no more is carried, no one person will venture upon an industry a hundred years, and the export restrictions will be the property of nearly 60,000 well established vines. I beg to think the promoters of the bill for it highly protective

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY, 27, 1869.

THUNDERBOLT'S BOY.—The Glen Innes correspondent of the Armidale Express writes:—The boy Munkton was finally brought up before the Bench, consisting of Messrs. Justice, District Judge, and Mr. J. W. G. Macdonald, for trial at the next Circuit Court. Armidale, some time in April, on three charges—the first, for being away from the place of Frederick Ward, or Thunderbolt, at its sticking in Mr. Maund's store at Willingrove, in October last. Mr. Maund positively swore to the boy's identity, and further that he stood watch over him with a revolver, and that

When going into the house the boy said "Don't move Maund," and presented a revolver at him. On the second charge—stealing a boy mare, the property of Colin McInnes of Wellingrove, on New Year's Day last—witnesses sworn to the mare, although not brought up at the Court-house, though ordered to be done so by the police. It had been in the possession of the boy, but was not actually seen with him when apprehended by Mr. Duncan McKinnis, the overseer of Wellingrove station, who, on missing the mare, in the morning, followed him beyond Strathgibbie station, and found him lying down in the bush. On challenging him about the theft, the boy went up the gully or creek where he was, and gave up the mare, already saddled and in harness, to Mr. McKennie, who brought him to the station, having, we understand, given him a good chastigation previously, although it did not appear in evidence. The third charge was for stealing one of Mr. P. C. Campbell's saddles and bridles, those and clearly found on the mare by Mr. McKensie when he overtook the boy and apprehended him. It is a pity that so young a lad should have had to be brought up on these charges, whatever the verdict of the jury before whom he will be tried may be hereafter. The lad stated that he never wished to remain with Thunderbolt, that he was afraid of him, and that he bolted from him some time after the affair at Wellington. He then sought some employment, and was hired at Messrs. Campbell and Gibson's station at Well-grove, working in the woodshed and at other places. He seemed to have kept his secret pretty well, for no one there knew he was the boy who had been with Thunderbolt—at least, no information or suspicion of it came to the ears of the police. He stated that he passed one of the policemen of Glen Innes at the Wellinggrove races who knew him well, but he turned his head aside and was not recognised. No doubt neither of the constables at the Wellinggrove race ever thought of him: he was not the prettiest of boys.

ROBBERY UNDER ARMS—It would appear, according to the Glen Innes correspondent of the Armidale Express, that a robbery under arms has been made in the "Glen," Mr. Robertson's station. A man, name unknown, about 35 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height, dark, with a black beard, and armed with two revolvers, bailed up Mr. Peter Dunlop, the overseer of the station, who was alone at the time. He took

When there he ordered him to stand by a tree, and was and bulled up the butkreeper, then busy killing a sheep placed him with Mr. Dunlop, and began a search. He took a horse, saddle, and bridle; a quantity of store goods, such as tobacco, slops, rations, &c., and six bottles of whisky the private property of Mr. Dunlop. He then ordered them to pull down the paddock rails, turned all the horses out and rode off with his booty, telling them that if they left

The place under twenty-four hours he would shoot them down. The information came to the police, but too late to do anything good. The Glen is a favourite spot for these gentry, being a regular den and cover for them all. Hence many of them resort to that favourite spot, hitherto safe from robbery.

STICKING-UP THE LOWER DARLING MAIL.—The Bourke correspondent of the Dubbo Dispatch writes on the 13th instant:—"Intelligence reached here on Sunday night by the Wilcennia mail that the down mail between Manindie and Wentworth had been stuck up, and some $3000 principally belonging to Messrs. Alexander Ross and Co. in transit to the Commercial Bank, Wentworth, had been extracted therefrom; also, that the up-mail had been trusted in like manner by the same person. The report goes that when the mail was some little distance from Reddish Britton's public-house, on the Lower Darling, it was met by an armed man, who ordered it to stand. It is stated that passengers (amongst whom was Mr. McCrae, of Toorale) had they any firearms amongst them, and upon receiving a reply in the negative, he ordered the mail down under the bank of the river, where the contents of the bags were strewn about. Mr. McCrae was deputed to read all cheques and valuable-looking papers for the raffian, who stated he was unable to read. Mr. McCrae abused the confidence reposed in him, and informed the highwayman that nearly all of the cheques and notes were stolen.

as the envelopes and notes were marked in such a manner as to be useless to any one, and advised that they should be restored to the letters they were abstracted from; and replaced in the bag, which advice to a certain extent was adopted. The party was then taken to Britton's where the worthy acknowledged himself to be Rutherford and talked of the affray at Shearer's; and when told his name was taken, he said they could not agree and parted and hinted something about rescuing him. He shouted

McCrac to take the head of the table. He also sat at the table, but never laid his revolver out of his hand, or gave any one the slightest chance to rush him. After a hearty meal, he informed all hands that he was off to stick up the Booligal mail. Senior-constable Johnston started by the following Booligal mail for the scene of action. Since Pearson's arrest he has said that when pursued by the Booligal police in the back country, he and Rutherford came across the police camp at night, and Rutherford wanted to sneak on the police while sleeping and shoot them; and when asked by Pearson, "Why add fresh criminals to their already overburdened consciences," he said, "We want their rifles." Pearson then said, "Would you murder a man cold blooded for the sake of his rifle," and they had a falling out. Pearson says Rutherford is a most bloodthirsty fellow.

The triennial custom of beating the bounds of the town of Geelong was observed by the Mayor and members of the Corporation on the 20th instant. The serge started early in the morning, and did not return until every boundary post had been bumped against, the ceremony being observed with the customary libations. During the day the party visited the extensive tannery owned by Messrs. Broadley Brothers, at the breakwater. After inspecting the works there, they, invited by Mr. R. H. Benson to spend the afternoon at the residence of Mr. J. H. Benson, where they were they were advised by Mr. St. Lawrence to partake of refreshments at his residence. In responding to his health, Mr. Breerley gave a good idea of what may be done by a man in Victoria, providing that he has energy and industry. He had, he said, been over twenty years in the colony. He had handed with two sovereigns in his pocket, and his establishment now furnished employment to a great many men. The civic party afterwards partook of refreshments at Kelly's Crown Hotel, and wound up the day's pleasure in the city.

FUNERAL OF AN ANOMALIGUS CHILD.—The Yass Courier states that on Tuesday last there was a novel sight in Yass. A female child, aged two years and four months, the daughter of King Andy of the Burrows aborigines, was interred in the Roman Catholic burial ground. The deceased was one of twins, and had been ailing for some time past, kindly prescribed for by Dr. O'Connor. She died on Monday, and a coffin with all the accouters of order very funerals were supplied. Deceased has been baptised in the Roman Catholic Church, as well as her parents and all the rest of the dark family. The coffin was carried on a horseback by an aboriginal, then followed the parents and the child, and in marshalled order the rest of the sons and daughters, all very young. The cortege was closed up by five or six of the inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood who have known Andy for a long series of years.

returned from a trip to Europe, has made a donation of £500 to the Albert Memorial Hospital, Wollongong.—The Anglican Episcopal Cemetery at Yass was consecrated by the Bishop of Goulburn on Thursday, 21st instant.—The Church Society of the diocese of Goulburn held a meeting on Thursday evening, 21st instant. From the statements of accounts, it appeared that $98 6s. 6d. has been contributed from the 31st March to the 31st December to the Diocesan Board of Finance, and $70 16s. 8d. to the Diocesan Board of Christian Education.

total of £129 2s. 2d.; from this was deducted the collector's commission, £10 12s. 7d., leaving £119 2s. 2d., which had been remitted to the Goulburn Church Society.—The Rev. F. A. C. Lillington, incumbent of St. Clement's, Yass, has been promoted by the Bishop of the diocese to the dignity of Archdeacon.—A letter has been received in Ballarat from St. Amand, in which the writer states that the murder of Mr. Chesle has caused great excitement there. A large number of persons are scouring the bush, in hope of finding the murderer and bringing him to justice. The writer adds that the opinion of the mailman is that Vair is a lunatic.—Mr. T. P. HILL, the elocutionist, is giving readings in Adelaide.—A Melbourne weekly states that a new aspirant for colonial honours will shortly arrive in Melbourne. Mr. Hume Talbot, a tragedian of some repute in the English provinces, and who a few seasons back played a short engagement at the Melbourne Theatre, is the person alluded to.

ment at Drury-lane Theatre, was announced to sail in the Lincolshire on the 21st December. A letter, which has been received in Melbourne from a well-known comedian speaks in glowing terms of Mr. Talbot's abilities, and states that the latter gentleman's assumption of 80 Ferdinand Macsophant is second only to Mr. Phelps'.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT TO MISS JAMES.—A complimentary concert, given by the ladies and gentlemen who sing and recite at the People's Concerts, in recognition of the Sons of Temperance, took place last night at the Temperance Hall. Mr. R. M. Isaacs, M.L.A., acted as temporary president on the occasion, and Mr. J. B. Wilson, M.L.A., also occupied a chair upon the platform. Miss James has not justly come to be regarded as one of our best public singers, and the continued success of the Saturday night concerts is in a great degree attributable to her cultivated voice, and to the high character of her songs. It was satisfactory to observe that the success of the concert was well maintained.

observed that had previously been observed, that the public, who she is associated was warmly seconded by the public, who attended on the occasion was sufficiently large to fill the hall. The programme comprised several of the songs which have now become as familiar in Sydney as "Mous hold words," but which, as sung by the vocalists referred to, never seem to lose their power to charm, and never fail to attract crowded audiences.

THE PRINCE OF WALES OPERA HOUSE.—As usual

holiday nights the theatres were well attended. The performance at this house consisted of the Christmas pantomime and the fine drama "A Hard Struggle." Both pieces were cleverly performed. To-night the Leopold Family, who have largely contributed to the success of "Jack Horner," take their leave.

THE VICTORIA THEATRE.—The programme last evening was Boucicault's excellent drama "The Colleen Bawn," with Madame Thurst, Miss Connor, and Mr. J.

The cargo of New Teas ex Frisk.—Merchants, Grocers, and others are reminded that the above cargo will be sold by auction this morning, by Messrs. Bradley, Newton, and Lamb.—Ad.

TELEGRAPHIC MESSAGES.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.]

BATHURST.

The cricket match between eleven of the Civil and Military Club of Sydney and fifteen of the Bathurst Club commenced to-day. The Bathurst team went first to the wickets, and scored ninety-two runs in the first innings, and when the sixteen were drawn the score stood at sixteen with four wickets down.

WEST MAITLAND.

The foundation stone of the Flood Gates was laid by the Premier, to-day; and he will be entertained at dinner to-night.

The cricket match was won by the Alberts with seven wickets to spare. There was a large concourse of people on the ground.

ARAUEN.

The foundation stone of the new Public school was laid to-day, by Mr. Blatchford; over a thousand persons were present; 700 children sang the National Anthem.

MELBOURNE.

The Cabinet is busy preparing a new Land Bill. The freestone used in the Parliamentary buildings has so decayed that the housekeeper had a narrow escape of being injured by the falling of a portion of the parapet.

The annual report of the Philharmonic Society states that the creditors have accepted a composition, and the society is now out of debt.

McDonald and Hylard, graziers and farmers at Campden, have been committed for trial on a charge of conspiracy, in attempting to get a Crown grant without complying with the compulsory residence regulation.

It is rumored that Mullany, who gave evidence against Barrett, of the Clerkenwell explosion notoriety, has arrived in Melbourne.

The sunken steamer, City of Luncheon, has been purchased by a new company, who intend to make a fresh attempt to raise her.

Deals are selling freely at advanced rates; there is some speculation in rum, 300 hogsheads having been sold at 3s. 9d. to 4s., and advanced rates are now being asked; 1000 tons of Java rice has been bought, it is supposed, for export, the terms are withheld.

A shipment of Coriander new has arrived.

ARRIVED.—Chieftain, from Fox Chow Foo; Ring-tail (s), from Sydney.

ADELAIDE.

Captain Hart is to move in the Assembly that the memorial of the Chamber of Commerce for the reduction of all telegraph charges to one-half the present rate be complied with, provided the other Governments will consent.

A dead lock between the Council and Assembly is probable, the latter having refused to agree to the amendments of the Council on the Land Bill, which the Upper House insists on.

The Duple Singh has been laid on for Liverpool, and will land with cereals.

Wheat is held for 4s. 2d., buyers freely offering 4s. 1d. There is a good demand for country flour, at 10s. 10d.; town flour is offered at 11s. 10d. to 12s.

ARRIVED.—Victoria, from Hamburg; Sailed—Aldinga (s), for Melbourne.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE COLONY.

The eighty-first anniversary of the colony opened yesterday with as fine a day as could be wished. The morning was bright and clear, and the sun shone out fully, as if in welcome of the numerous holiday groups that, immediately after breakfast, began to throng the city, to fill the parks, and to crowd the streets. A light and pleasant breeze kept the air in motion without raising the dust.

Coming, as it does, so soon after the Christmas and New Year's Day holidays, one would almost imagine that the annual day of New South Wales would stand considerable chance of being neglected. But the people of the colony are not to be wearied out of their holiday spirit. There was no lack of amusement for the pleasure seekers. Our diversions were not confined to the usual amusements of the colony; and old and young would almost as soon give up the Anniversary itself as the Regatta with which it has been for so long connected. The day was a holiday, and the people were not to be wearied out of their holiday spirit. But the people of the colony are not to be wearied out of their holiday spirit.

and, may we hope, strengthen it for the work of the following day in the national enjoyment of that which had passed.

Regarded as a holiday, or day of rest and recreation for the labourer, whether by the hand or by the head, it is an advance of a most important character upon the matter of the day. It is a day, however, as the anniversary of the birth of what we have been so often told is to be a great nation, it is invaluable to us. THE REGATTA.

AMONG the multifarious attractions held forth to holiday-makers on Anniversary Day, the regatta is undoubtedly and deservedly the most popular. Every point which commands a view of the harbour was yesterday thronged with people, who combined with the pleasure of a picnic a sight of the aquatic sports which took place upon the water.

The regatta was opened by the Mayor, who, in a most appropriate fashion, the weather was so fine that it could be described for pleasure-seekers, and the sailing matches for small boats, but there was not sufficient wind for the larger yachts. A light breeze from the north-east set in during the day, and the wind was not sufficient to prevent it falling off, and shifted to the southward and eastward.

MANLY BEACH AND WATSON'S BAY.—Manly Beach, as a place of holiday making, seems never to lose ground in the estimation of the public; and yesterday it was usually the case on public holidays, it was visited by great numbers of people, for whose travelling accommodation one or two extra steamers had been ordered to ply between the shore and the beach, dispersing themselves in every direction, and enjoying wherever a shady and suitable spot presented itself. In addition to the natural attractions of the place, some inducements in the shape of sports, dancing, &c., were held out to pleasure seekers. The prices being just sufficient to induce a few persons to enter into competition with each other. A great amount of amusement was thus afforded to a large number of the excursionists. There was also a considerable amount of dancing going on during the afternoon, and the whole of the day was a most enjoyable one.
